

Creating the space where you can thrive sounds wonderful. The very thought of renovation is what fills most people with dread. We call this "Renophobia".

At ShapeHouse, our focus is to guide you through the process with clear communication, expert advice and first-class workmanship.

The result is a more enjoyable home renovation experience which our clients call "innovative" and "unique".

"We see the relationship with our clients as a collaboration. Walking with them every step along the project journey. Always doing our very best"

Gez Drohan - Managing Director of ShapeHouse

"When considering a home renovation most home owners worry about where to start, rising costs, unreliable builders and poor quality workmanship. At ShapeHouse we have a one stop shop solution for managing your project with our team of industry experts. The result is a quality and long lasting improved home to be proud of".

Paige Whayman - General Manager at ShapeHouse

Walton-on-Thames

Liz had a few items on her ShapeHouse shopping list, with a combination of a new kitchen, partition wall, and complete roof works. For good measure a new patio created an inviting outside space to enjoy a G & T on a sunny evening!

Dorking

Steve was making a significant increase to the footprint of his home with a double height front and rear extension and a total remodel internally with renovation to an external brick building. When adding to a building, the ability to blend the brickwork is something ShapeHouse prides itself on and Steve was very pleased with the final result. We have trouble working out which side we worked on!

Wimbledon

Ben completely remodeled his property by extending the ground floor and converting his loft. The ground floor consists of a handle-less, modern Schmidt kitchen fitted by ShapeHouse, a walk-in bespoke pantry, living room, all in an open-plan space. In addition, the property benefited from a loft converted transforming the attic space into a master bedroom with en-suite.

Croydon

Hattie approached us with a clear and defined vision for the remodel of her home and the side return extension. The property is located on a main road, but we weren't deterred! She has now subsequently moved out and bought a new home, and guess what? Yes, she's using our competitors to do her new build... don't be silly... of course she's not; she's now officially a Double ShapeHouser.

Caterham

Kris contacted ShapeHouse with a baby on the way and needed to expand the kitchen's footprint. We embarked on removing an existing conservatory and developed the single-storey rear extension with sliding bi-fold doors, pitch roof with three Velux windows to flood the area with as much light as possible. We installed an overlay system with underfloor heating and added a sliding pocket door to maximise space. The works were all completed in time for the pitter-patter of tiny feet across the warm kitchen floor!

Coulsdon

Desiree had approached the team to plan a side return extension to create an open plan kitchen, including a dining area and superb space for entertaining. A new landscaped driveway and patio were also on her wish list, so we set the team to work and completed the project in 16 weeks. This is another ShapeHouse project that was finished on time and within budget.

Ham

Camilla contacted the team concerning the design and implementation of a Boot Room. Yes, you guessed it... the place where all things muddy live. We all know how muddy winter weekends are, muddy football boots, muddy wellies, muddy kit, and muddy dogs - that's a lot of mud! Camilla also requested bespoke cupboards to run through The Boot Room to tie in with the quality of build throughout the rest of the home.

New Malden

Jon wanted to convert his loft into a new bedroom with an en-suite shower room. Initially, the idea was for his teenage son to benefit from the new space. However, once construction started, Jon became utterly seduced by the size of the room. Alas, it became the Master suite.

Sorry, Jon's Son!

Balham

Sarah's project was challenging not because of the build complexity but simply because of the virtue of living on the main road. Getting materials into the property off a busy main road is never easy, especially when parking wardens are circling. However, we managed to use our charm to get things ferried in and out without too many parking tickets!

Ashted

Matt had decided it was time to reconfigure a few things at home. So in addition to the new kitchen extension, he had been thinking about a garage extension to accommodate a new home office and while we were at it he thought why not have a new patio built with accompanying retaining wall, crafted from railway sleepers.

Cobham

David and Zhang purchased a dated property within an exclusive area of Cobham, Surrey with a view to extending the undersized rooms into their forever home. The initial design concepts, with a previous Architect, were challenged during their first consultation with ShapeHouse as we felt the proposed elevations and floorplans were not consistent with the project brief and did not make the most of the beautiful and spacious setting.

ShapeHouse re-designed the elevations and floorplans to provide an impressive vaulted entrance hall, loft conversion, rear extension and internal remodel. The shell build time took 10 months and is a project that ShapeHouse, David and Zhang are very proud of.
